

PERMANENT MISSION OF JAPAN TO THE UNITED NATIONS

TO THE UNITED NATIONS
NEW YORK

SC/09/390

The Permanent Mission of Japan to the United Nations presents its cordial congratulations to the Secretary-General on his 50th birthday.

On the occasion of the anniversary, the Mission wishes to express its appreciation for the Secretary-General's leadership and his tireless efforts to promote international peace and cooperation. We are confident that his continued leadership will contribute to the stability and prosperity of the world.

The Mission also wishes to express its appreciation for the Secretary-General's efforts to promote international peace and cooperation. We are confident that his continued leadership will contribute to the stability and prosperity of the world.

The Mission also wishes to express its appreciation for the Secretary-General's efforts to promote international peace and cooperation. We are confident that his continued leadership will contribute to the stability and prosperity of the world.

It stresses that the balance of rights and obligations in the Antarctic Treaty System is essential for the stability of the region.

by the Argentine Republic to the Commission on the Limits of the Continental Shelf, submitted Japan v. Argentina, that the American Commission will not take any action on the portion of the Commission's report which is not in accordance with the Commission's recommendations.

It is the Commission's policy to

to

||

||