Remarks at closing ceremony of the Hellenic Children's Museum Exhibition
Realizing Identity, Respecting Diversity
Athens' 100th Anniversary, 1918-2018

I am delighted to be here yet again for this annual event. Let me pay tribute once more to the Museum's leadership, and to my friends Mayor Giorgos Kaminis and Deputy Mayor Maria Iliopoulou, for their vision and leadership on behalf of Athens' youngest citizens.

Five years ago, you embraced wholeheartedly the suggestion from the Athens Democracy Forum and the Democracy Fund to hold this annual children's event.

In so doing, you live up to not only the spirit but the letter of Democracy's principles.
