46th Session of the Commission on Population and Development

Agenda Item 4 - General debate on national experience in population matters: new trends in migration demographic aspects

Statement by His Excellency Alvaro Mendonça e Moura

Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary

remember that international migration is a complex phenomenon that entails different dimensions and factors.

The reality today is not one in which only people from poor countries migrate to rich countries; we are increasingly witnessing movements from the so-and opportunities and seeking innovative answers and policies to international migration.

However, "South-South" migration movements that occur precisely between developing countries remain responsible for approximately 60% of all global migration. This represents an important area
