

Statement of H. E. Archbishop Bernardito Auza

PHILIPPINE COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE

Dear Sirs,

Dear Sirs,

Dear Sirs,

Reference is made to your letter of 15 October 2014, in which you requested that I should provide a statement on the human rights situation in the Philippines. I am pleased to provide this statement to you. I am also pleased to see that you have taken the initiative to request a statement from me, as I have done so in the past. I am also pleased to see that you have taken the initiative to request a statement from me, as I have done so in the past. I am also pleased to see that you have taken the initiative to request a statement from me, as I have done so in the past.

Very truly yours,

Bernardito Auza
Archbishop of Manila

I am pleased to provide this statement to you. I am also pleased to see that you have taken the initiative to request a statement from me, as I have done so in the past. I am also pleased to see that you have taken the initiative to request a statement from me, as I have done so in the past. I am also pleased to see that you have taken the initiative to request a statement from me, as I have done so in the past.

common foundation, which is the right to life and, more generally, what we could call the right to existence of human nature itself.”

As the international community works together to strengthen the demographic evidence base for the 2030 Agenda, my delegation wishes to underscore that stable and just societies are not built on individualism. They are born out of a culture of solidarity that sees others not as rivals or mere statistics but as brothers and sisters, not as obstacles but as co-agents of our collective development.

Thank you, Mr. Chair.
