The Joint Declaration of 2003 made it a model for political reform. Two years ago in response to UNAMID's findings, the government of Darfur imposed a range of direct measures to improve its implementation of the joint declaration.

This new approach has been adopted by the government of Darfur to address the challenges of the joint declaration. It is based on the principles of accountability, transparency, and participation. The government of Darfur has committed to:

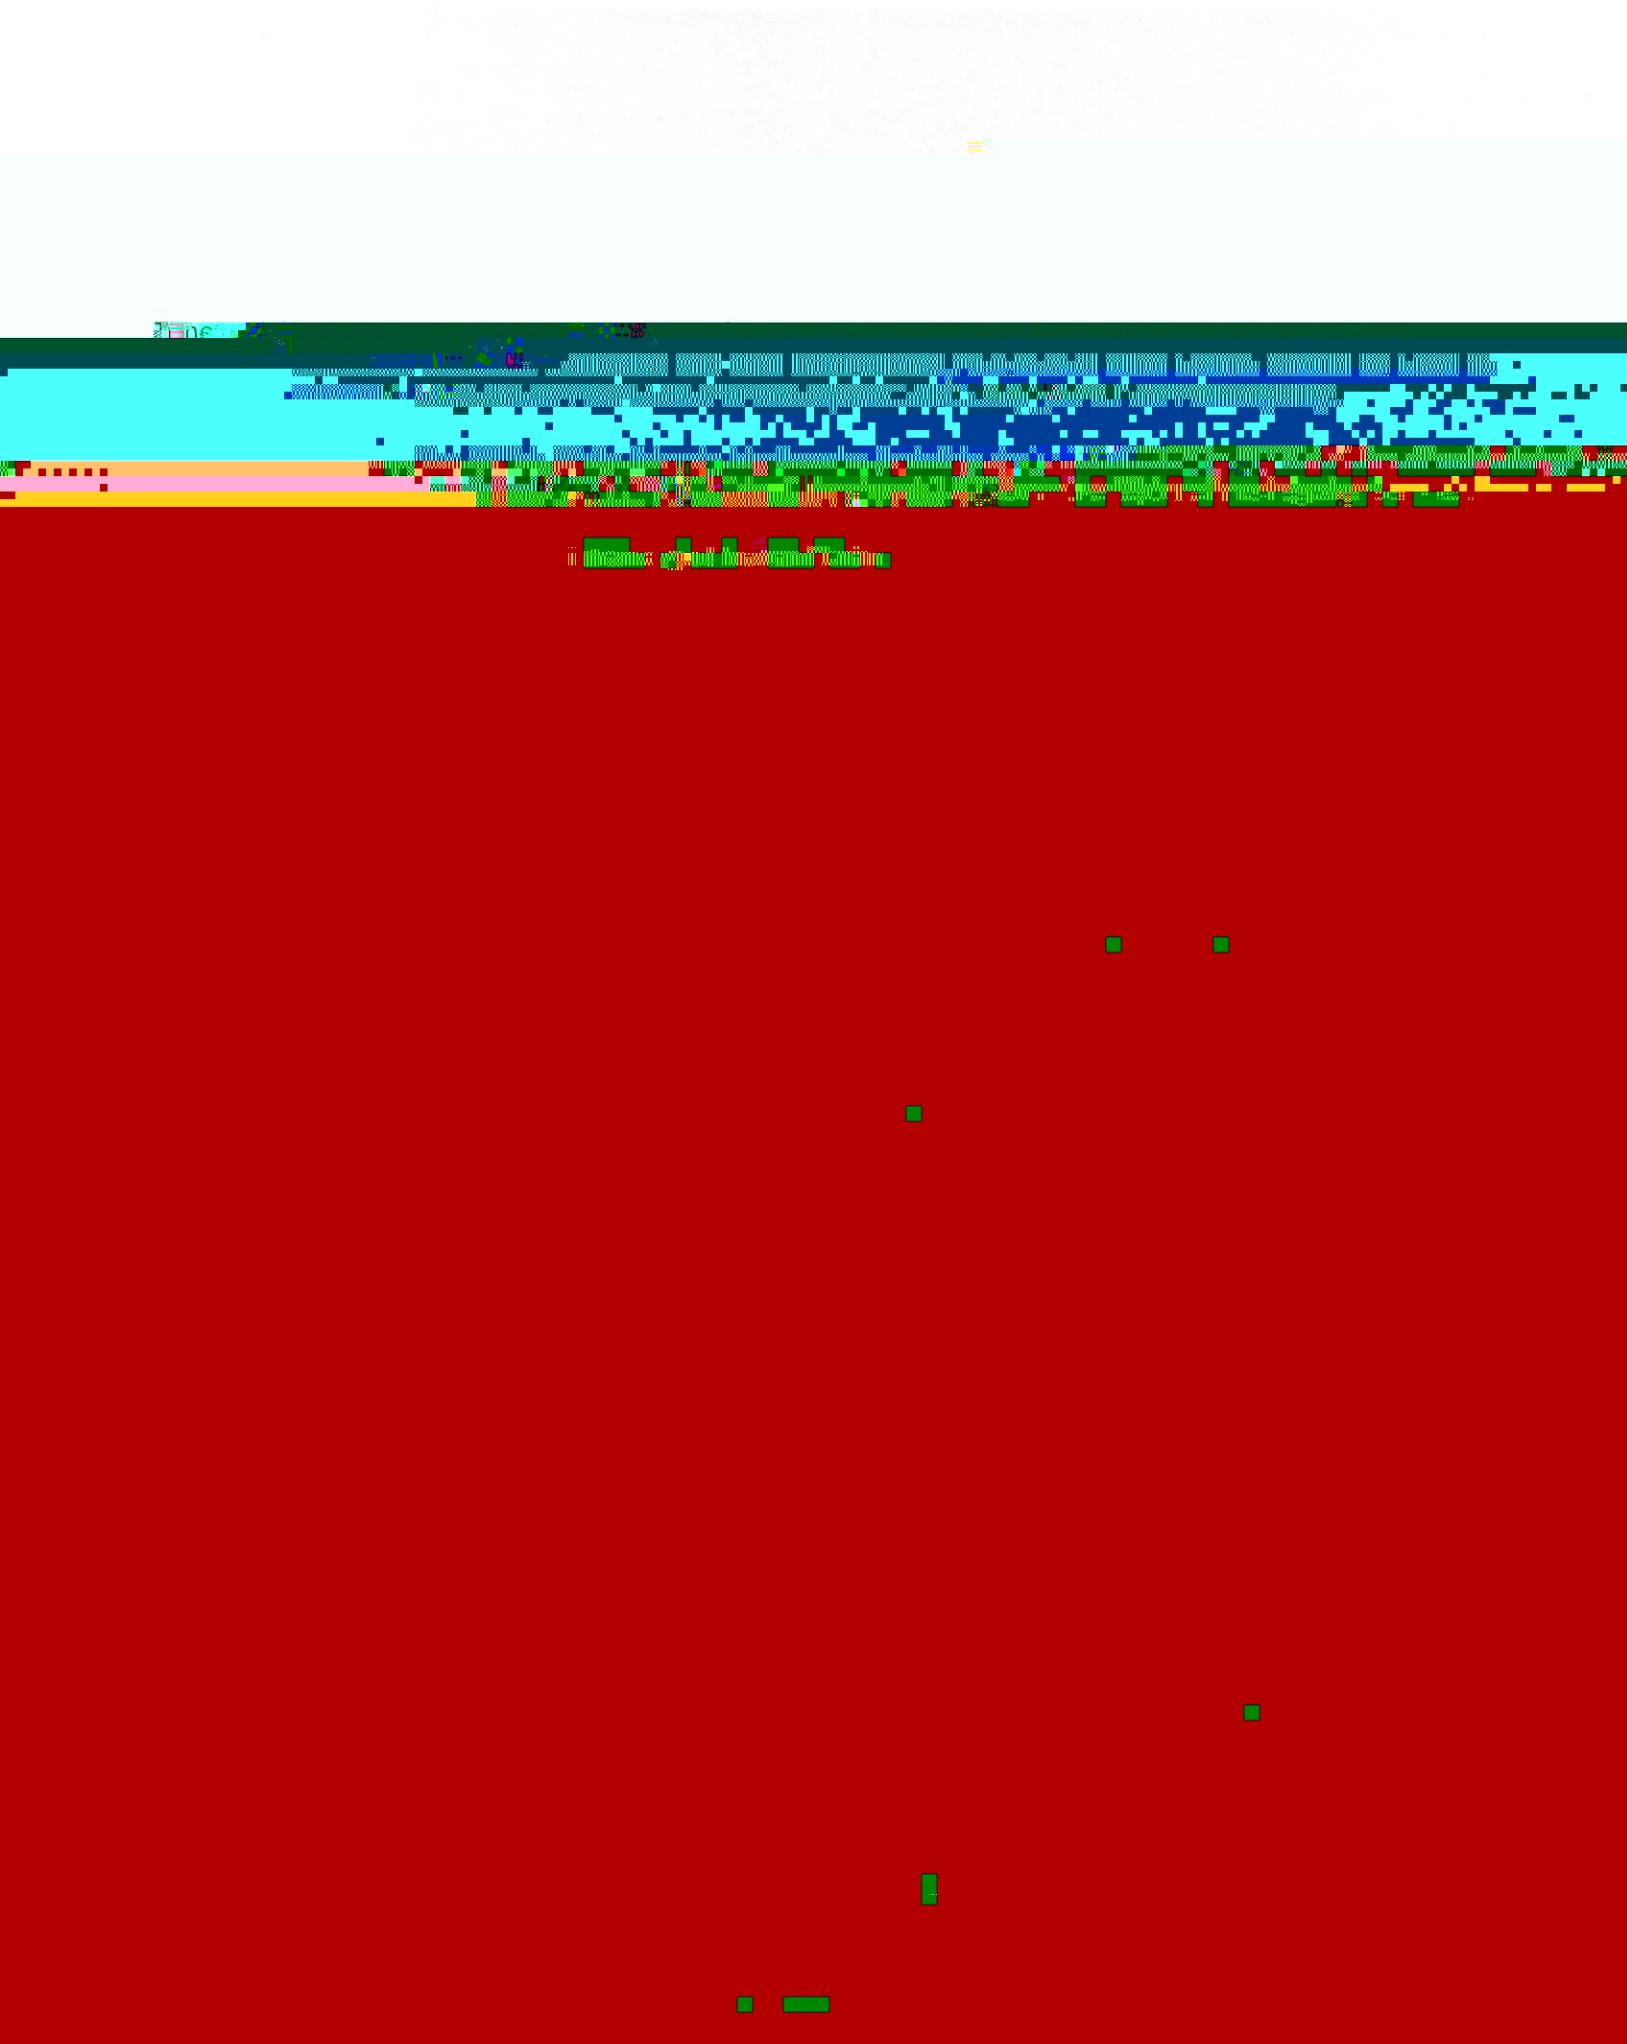

- Establishing a Special Commission to monitor and evaluate the implementation of the joint declaration.
- Developing a clear and transparent plan of action to implement the joint declaration.
- Ensuring that all members of the government of Darfur are held accountable for their actions.
- Promoting participation and engagement of civil society organizations in the implementation of the joint declaration.
- Ensuring that the joint declaration is implemented in a timely and effective manner.

These measures will help to ensure that the joint declaration is fully implemented and that the people of Darfur benefit from the improvements in governance and accountability.

This will be very timely as the British Virgin Islands are actively engaged in the process of considering their constitutional future, which cannot ignore the question of self-determination.

In the very near future, our local Parliament will take up this issue.

I thank you.
