Mr. Justice Llewellyn, the Queen's Bench Court, said (in part) as follows:

"...that the Court of Common Pleas, in its judgment in the case of St. John v. St. John, held that the right of action against the husband for damages for adultery accrued at the time of the adultery, and that the wife could not, by her own act, extinguish that right."

Mr. Justice Llewellyn's finding will probably depend on the Old Statute of Limitations, which provides:

business intelligence reports, including donor demographics, financial performance, and volunteer participation. This system also includes a reporting module that allows users to generate reports for specific departments or individuals. The system has been well-received by staff members, who appreciate its ease of use and ability to provide timely information.

After the initial implementation, the system was modified to include additional features such as automated reporting and real-time data analysis. These modifications have greatly improved the system's functionality and user experience. The system has also been used to support various fundraising efforts, including annual giving campaigns and special events. Overall, the system has been a valuable tool for the organization, helping them to better manage their resources and achieve their goals.

The Board has made 58 recommendations since it began auditing the project in 2012. In 2015 some 16 recommendations were extant, of which two were fully implemented, eight were under implementation, five had not been implemented and one had been closed by the Board. The recommendations either not implemented or under implementation are set out below, along with the Board's assessment of their status.

The Administration has agreed new software requirements arising from changes to staff service conditions but has concluded that it will be unable to deploy the upgraded software in line with the General Assembly's mandated implementation date.

- There is increasing engagement with the project.
