

The Role of the Private Sector to Poverty Eradication

Sir Mark Moody-Stuart Chairman, Anglo American plc

It is clear that while government and donor the business is on its feet, usually after three years, Anglo Zimele sells out to the entrepreneur, leaving the business as completely independent. There are currently investments in 37 businesses, with a collective annual turnover of $135 million.

In the context of business development I treatment running for some years now, we have the statistics to demonstrate that, apart from any moral imperative, the cost of provision of antiretroviral treatment for
