13 November 2017

Residual Special Court for Sierra Leone (on behalf of Canada, Australia, and New Zealand)

Statement by Sophie Piché, Advisor UNGA
Permanent Mission of Canada to the United Nations

Merci monsieur le Président,

J'ai l'honneur aujourd'hui de m'adresser à vous au nom du Canada, de l'Australie et de la Nouvelle Zélande sur le point 136 de l'ordre du jour : La subvention pour le Tribunal spécial résiduel pour la Sierra Leone.

CANZ salue la présentation du rapport du Secrétaire général sur l'utilisation de l'autorisation lasting peace and preventing the resurgence of the conflict. But the Special Court also, by its actions and exemplary discharge of its mandate, promoted the value of an impartial and functioning criminal judicial system in building a peaceful and just society.

The Special Court has become a model for other tribunals, and today, the Residual Special Court is a very lean body. It carries on the mandate of the Court, administering sentences and continuing to oversee witness protection activities, providing assistance to national authorities,
