implementation. Eliminating these silos is a key element of this important reform, and a work plan must be established to ensure these efforts come to fruition. We look forward to a clear plan to optimize the utilization of resources for policy and thematic capacities across the architecture. Mr. Chair, it is also essential these efforts produce tangible and measurable results, through an evidence based approach, which are explicitly linked to the goals of the reform. The Organization needs to remain accountable to these goals to retain Member State confidence in
