We are excited to have you join our community and look forward to your success at the University of Chicago.

Sincerely,
The Dean of Students

Mr. Chairman,

The Czech Republic considers the universal jurisdiction to be an important and useful tool in the fight against impunity for the crimes under international law. It is a generally recognized principle of public international law which promotes rule of law and has deterrent effect on possible perpetrators. It is the nature and severity of these crimes which violate universal values common to the international community that cause that it is in the interest of all States to hold perpetrators of such crimes accountable and eliminate the existence of safe havens.
