! • , The individuals should not go unpunished just because they enjoy diplomatic privileges and immunities. In the course of investigation, the Secretary-General should waive such immunities to ensure justice to the victims.

The exchange of information is also