Mr. Chairman,

8. As regards the proposals of the Special Rapporteur free formulated draft articles 1 to 6, for consideration on second reading, I would like to make the following observations. Firstly, on paragraph (3) of draft article 1, Ireland welcomes the amendment of this paragraph had been one of the delegations urging this adjustment but wonder whether the revised text would capture all relevant instruments, including for instance the recently concluded jana to The Hague Convention on International Cooperation in the Investigation and Prosecution of International Crimes.

with a set of conclusions. Such a report will allow States to consider the issues in the and determine how best to followup the work of the Commission on this very important topic.

Mr. Chairman

24. To conclude, I would briefly like to mentidme report of theInternational Law Seminarwhich took place in Genevaluring summer. Ireland considers that this Seminar is integral to the promotion of international law broadly speaking, giving as it does the opportunity to young lawyers, particularly those from developing countries, to learn about the work of the Commission, awell as deepening their general understanding of international law. aware commend the Members of the Commission for giving the label time to the Seminar each year. t • Z Œ š Z } u u] • •] } v [• } v Œ v of the Seminarana halvenooure ge those states in a position to do so to consider making voluntary contribution of seminar, as we have done, to ensure wide participation, including by young lawyers who could not afford to do so without financial assistance.

I thank you for your kind attention.
