Regarding Non-legally binding international agreements, Member States recognized the role of non-legally binding international agreements in the formation of soft-law rules of international law.

Some Member States highlighted the practice of the Regional organization as Association of South East Asian Nations (ASEAN) of concluding non-binding instruments and expressed how it demonstrated flexibility, rather than rigid legal obligations, that could be an effective tool

On the topic of <sup>3</sup> S L U D F \ D Q G D U P H G U, FA, ELEO Member V H D ´ States have advocated for a comprehensive approach that highlights respect for sovereignty, international cooperation, reliance on UNCLOS as the primary legal framework on piracy, capacity building, and clarity in jurisdictional rules.

First, respect for the sovereignty and jurisdiction of coastal states has been considered as fundamental by AALCO Member States emphasizing that these States should primarily enforce anti-piracy laws in their territorial and exclusive economic zones (EEZs). Anti-piracy efforts must be under the sovereign rights, and universal jurisdiction should not undermine coastal authority.

Second, international cooperation and capacity-building are essential, as piracy is a transnational crime. Member States advocated for enhanced coordination, especially sicoo for addressed within the UNCLOS framework, even if some States have not ratified it. UNCLOS is viewed as customary international law and the "constitution of the Ocean" for its role in regulating maritime activities.

Fourth, Member States called for clearer definitions and guidelines on piracy, particularly regarding jurisdiction and the role of private security personnel on merchant ships. Concerns were raised about ambiguities surrounding politically motivated piracy and the legal complexities involving private security personnel, highlighting jurisdictional challenges that arise from their presence.

One Member State remarked that Judicial decisions could contribute to the formation of a rule of customary international law only if they are consistent with established principles and rules of international law and are widespread. A Member State also noted that in view of the divergent views of courts and tribunals on identical legal issues, there ought to be greater caution in scrutinizing judicial decisions to determine their significance as evidence of general rules of international law.

One Member State observed that the resolutions of international organizations could also fall within the scope of Article 38, paragraph 1
