

developing countries to harness and channel their domestically generated finance for domestic investment through more effective cooperative actions against illicit capital flows and tax evasion is also important. We support strengthening regulatory framework and enabling environment at all levels, necessary to harness the potential of multi-stakeholder partnerships and

2015 will be a landmark year for the global fight against poverty and a sustainable future. Thus, it is more important than ever to track progress