Overview

e Economic and Social Council will hold its Special high-level meeting with the World Bank, International Monetary Fund, the World Trade Organization and the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development on 14 and 15 April at the United Nations Headquar ters, New York. e overall theme of the meeting will be 'Coherence, coordination and cooperation in the context of nancing for sustainable development and the post-2015 development age'nda meeting will be structured around three topics.

A Ministerial segment will be held on the theme:

- 1. World economic situation and prospects.
- e meeting will also feature two informal the

In developing countries and economies in tran sition, the unemployment situation is mixed, with extremely high structural unemployment in North Africa and Western Asia, particularly among youth. By contrast, unemployment rates in Latin America and the Caribbean are at record lows. Still, high rates of informal employment as well as pronounced gender gaps in there is also a strong consensus that all types of ows will be necessary, including domestic, international, public and private. Public nancing, including ODA and domestic resource mobilization, along with an appropri ate policy framework, will remain indispensable.-None theless, given the sheer size of nancing needs, it is clear that public resources alone will not be su cient.

In the past, di erent nancing streams were often seen as substitutable, based on the view that money is fungible. However, recent analysis, which has focused on underlying incentives, has emphasized that di er

Questions for discussion:

- While private for-pro t investors can meet many of the investment needs for sustainable development, some activities are best addressed by Governments, in many cases supported by o cial cooperation. What lessons can be drawn from the experiences and international discussions thus far to boost cooperation e ectiveness and strengthen con dence in the e cacy of increased development cooperation ows?
- What kinds of policies would help incentivize greater private sector nancing of sustainable devel opment? How can public resources more e ectively leverage private sector investments for sustainable devel opment? What can be learned from past experiences and what mechanisms would be most e ective in di erent circumstances?

stakeholders across a range of policy areas. As a areallity evelopment landscape is increasingly characted the world has witnessed significant progress in meetized by many dispersed actors and high complexity, its the MDGs. However, progress has been uneven arrost important contribution may lie in setting the right un nished business remains. In addition, new-chialcentives for this broad range of actors to facilitate sus lenges have emerged or have become more urgent, tainable development nancing and investment.

For this reason, the post-2015 development agenda A broad sustainable development nancing frame will have to be underpinned by a renewed and strengytork would also address sustainable development in ened global partnership for sustainable development it would also address sustainable development in an integrated manner. It would grounded on the values of equity, solidarity and human rights, which builds on the strengths of the existing framework, while taking on board the lessons learned, and addressing new challenges. Commitments to policy action will have to be broader than in MDG 8, address ing in an integrated manner the three dimensions of sustainable development. To be e ective, the global partnership will also require a strengthened, robust and inclusive monitoring and accountability mechanism, to monitor progress in implementation of commitments.

e new partnership will need to engage all rel evant stakeholders, galvanizing action at the local, national and global levels. Only a joint e ort, leveraging the strengths of all actors, including civil society, the pri vate sector, local governments, national parliaments and others, will enable the realization of the shared vision embodied in a sustainable development agenda.

e new global partnership will be set out by Member States of the United Nations. At its heart, then, it will de ne a compact of commitments to policy actions by Member States. At the same time, the global partnership needs to provide space and exibility for engagement with a much broader range of actors. In the quest to achieve sustainable development goals, multistakeholder implementing partnerships can engage and bring to the table all relevant stakeholders for a speci c purpose or goal, allowing them to leverage their comparative advantages and respective strengths.

To this end, the global partnership should be embedded in a broad and comprehensive nancing framework for sustainable development. Such a frame work would contain renewed commitments, while providing guidance to stakeholders in their e ort to contribute to sustainable development. As the nancing
