TUESDAY 18 OCTOBER 2016

HOW CAN WE SAFEGUARD OUR PLANET WHILE MAKING HEALTHY, DIVERSE AND BALANCED DIETS AVAILABLE FOR ALL?

Learn from first-hand accounts from several regions around the world about the nutritional challenges of communities and their solutions.

Practitioners from Latin America, Africa and Nordic countries will provide examples based on country and regional specific diets. Context-specific examples will also be presented from a range of actors, including pastoralists/fisheries and businesses. Building on the UNSCN upcoming discussion brief about climate and healthy diets, and the outcomes of the Second International Conference on Nutrition, participants will be inspired to consider similar initiatives in their countries and the resources required to make them happen.

THE EVENT WILL BE MODERATED BY

Dr Francesco Branca,

EN, SP and FR interpretation will be provided.

ORGANISED BY

The Government of Brazil, the Government of Costa Rica, the University of Copenhagen and UNSCN.
