

24 June 2024, New York

I thank Ambassador Šimonovi and Ambassador Ladeb for convening today's timely discussion.

The core of the debate is how we collectively respond to the multifaceted and interlinked challenges facing these countries and the region, and how to assist them in building resilience with concrete proposals.

As we scan the international landscape, we see increased number of conflicts and violence; millions of displaced people; economic and financial crisis

