

freely through their elected organs". This disposition is complemented by two ordinances on decentralization and deconcentration.

7. However, the formal enunciation of constitutional provisions and the important judicial arsenal related to it does not h ability to ensure just and fair competition in the context of free and transparent elections. In the future, efforts will be needed to ensure that questions such as funding for political parties, the legal status of the oppo

