

The Secretary-General's Peacebuilding Fund

Newsletter Issue 1

We need more peacebuilding. The moral and programmatic ranging from a global food security crisis to increasing

2

Á Z

Ú Ä Å 2

dictatorship

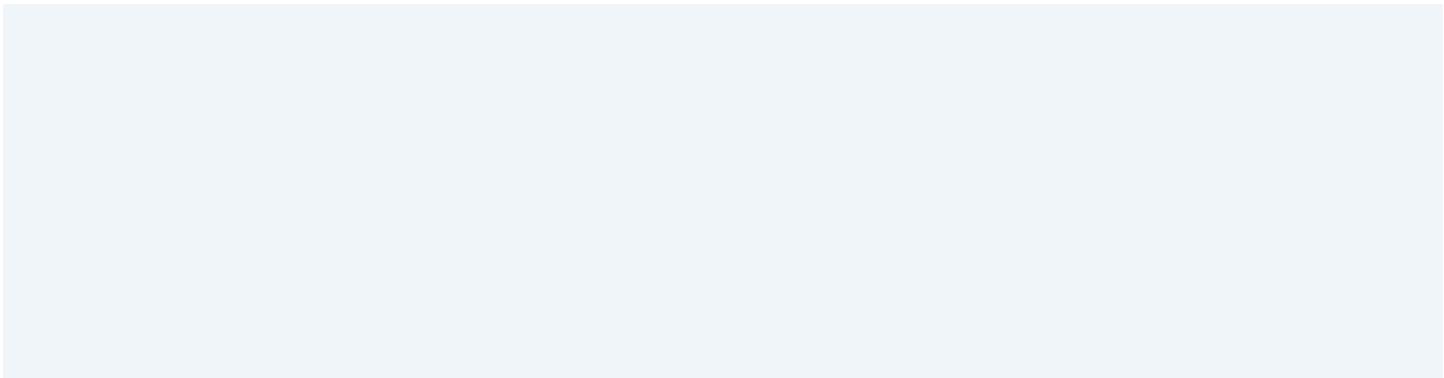

dictatorship.

We also hear from young peacebuilders in Somalia as they

Ú 2

Á œ Z á œ ù
Z Á œ []

Ú [Ú] Ú [Ú] y [y]
Å [Å] Ú [Ú] c [c] Å [Å] z [z] 9
Ú [Ú] c [c] Å [Å] 2 [2] Å [Å] 2 [2]

Incentivizing Private Sector Investments in Conflict-Affected Communities

Investments in conflict-affected communities can help to stimulate economic growth and reduce poverty.

These investments can take many forms, such as infrastructure development, agricultural projects, or industrial ventures.

However, it is important to ensure that these investments are sustainable and benefit the local population.

This requires careful planning and engagement with local stakeholders to ensure that the investments are aligned with the needs and aspirations of the community.

One way to achieve this is through the use of incentives, such as tax breaks or subsidies, to encourage private sector investment in conflict-affected areas.

For example, the government could offer tax breaks to companies that invest in agriculture, mining, or manufacturing in conflict-affected regions.

Mélida Montero consequences of the armed conflict. For her, coffee is

$ $

Ú

2

ú

i

ú

i

ú

i

ú

i

ú

i

ú

i

ú

i

ú

i

ú

i

resulting in retaliatory interactions that further perpetuate

ú [] z [] 9

ú

[

]

access to basic facilities.

Ú Á [] z Á1 z á Æ9 Á []

[Á1Z] [á] [Œ]
[z] [y] [Á] [Á] [z] [Œ] [Ú]
[á] [9] [Á1Z] [1] [2] [1] [Œ] [Œ] [Œ]
[Ú] [Á1Z] [z] [[)] [A]

Ú Z ∈ [] Ā ~

1 á E A

Ú

Ú

Ú

Ú

Ú

Ú

Á

2

Ú

Ú

Æ

Á

~

Á

Z

2

i

{

ú ú

Á

Z

- Support financial independence

A