

Operationalizing multi-scale policy coherence for climate action: an interactive reflection

Decisions related to environment and development need to adopt a socio-ecological systems approach. Several implementation experiences demonstrate that alignment across multiple sectoral policies helps reduce adverse trade-offs, unintended consequences and enhance resources efficiency and effectiveness of

A